Double Oscar Winner Visits Global Indian International School in Queenstown

A.R.Rahman takes time off from concert preparations to mingle and sing with students

Singapore, 18 March 2011 – Students at the Global Indian International School (GIIS) in Queenstown were given a special treat on Thursday (17/3) when world renowned composer and living legend A.R. Rahman, who is in town for his “Jai Ho: The Journey Home World Tour” concert, paid the school a visit.

Rahman took some time off preparing for his concerts to interact with the GIIS students and answer questions on his career, motivations, music style and aspirations. Rahman, one of the most prominent and prolific music composers in India enthralled the world with his composition of “Jai Ho” for the hit movie Slumdog Millionaire.

In a special message to the GIIS students, Rahman said, “It is a pleasure to meet the students of Global Indian International School in Singapore. From my visit to your campus, it seems that the school has made excellent efforts to give its students an all-round exposure especially in music. I wish all GIIS students and aspiring singers the very best. Just believe in yourself and you will find endless possibilities of success in your life”.
